Evolution of the Web

Crawl	Walk	Run
Web 1.0	Web 2.0	Web 3.0
Mostly Read-Only	Wildly Read-Write	Portable & Personal
Company Focus	Community Focus	Individual Focus
Home Pages	Blogs / Wikis	Lifestreams / Waves
Owning Content	Sharing Content	Consolidating Content
Web Forms	Web Applications	Smart Applications
Directories	Tagging	User Behavior
Page Views	Cost Per Click	User Engagement
Banner Advertising	Interactive Advertising	Behavioral Advertising
Britannica Online	Wikipedia	The Semantic Web
HTML / Portals	XML / RSS	RDF / RDFS / OWL

Why Structured Data is Important

Enables Access to "The Deep Web"

Transition from a
Web of Documents to a
Web of Data

Structured Data = Linked Data

Tim Berners-Lee (W3C) Defined Four Essential Principles

- Use URIs to Identify Things
- Use HTTP URIs so Things can be Referenced
- Provide Structured Description Using Metadata
- Include Links to Other, Related URIs in Exposed Data

Foundation of the Semantic Web

- RDF - Resource Description Framework
Describes, captures knowledge & defines relationships
Uses MetaData to define semantic web relationships
- RDF Triplet Example:
Subject – Open Travel Forum
Property – Presenter
Object – Robert Cole

Foundation of the Semantic Web

- RDFS (RDF Schema)
Describes properties & classes of RDF's
- SPARQL
Query language for RDF
Enables queries across diverse data sources
- OWL (Web Ontology Language)
Vocabulary describes characteristics of RDF properties relationships between RDF classes

RDFa - Human & Machine Readable

- XHTML attribute extensions for embedding rich metadata in web documents

Benefits

- Publisher Independence – Site Owned Standard
- Data Reuse – Data not Duplicated
- Self Containment – HTML & RDF Separated
- Schema Modularity – Attributes are Reusable
- Evolvability – Additional Fields may be Added

"Now! ... That should clear up a few things around here!"

W3C Linking of Open Data Cloud: 13.1 Billion RDF Triples & 142 Million RDF Links

Goal: More Relevant Search

Travel Decisions are Complicated

Personalization Requires Context

Multiple Traveler Personas Drive Decision Process

- Business Trip (Other People's Money)
Convenient Location / Preferred Supplier / HQ Hotel
- Romantic Getaway
Best Service / Most Memorable Experience
- Family Vacation
Kid Friendly Activities / Recreational Options

Three Types of Deep Web Search:

Vertical Search

- Queries Databases that Sit Behind Websites

Semantic Search

- Understands Searcher Intent & Contextual Meaning

Product Search

- Product Features, Attributes & Relationships

Two Types of Search Queries:

Exploratory:

- Information About a Topic
- References a Source to Locate Data
- Examples: Google / Bing / Yahoo

Factual:

- Computational Knowledge
- Provides Actionable Information
- Example: Wolfram|Alpha

Extremely High Price for Low Value

★★★★★ By Dixie - Mar 20, 2010

We stayed at this hotel for a seminar that was being held there. Because of the extremely high price, we invited another friend to share a room with us. For $217 for one night, we had a small room with two double (not queen size, but double) beds. My sis & I shared one of the beds. Neither of us is very big (both about 5 feet and not overweight) but the down duvet barely covered the two of us with very little to spare. Thus when one of us rolled toward the center, we ended up face to face a couple of times. Or if one rolled toward the outside, they found insufficient covering. For the price you would expect a few of the normal amenities to be had at more economically priced hotels, but you had to pay $12.95 a day just to use the phone for even local calls or to have internet access in our room. We had to ask twice for extra washcloths, the bathrobes that were promised in the online information were forthcoming only on request, and there were not even shower caps ... More »

Great location, nothing else great about it

★★★★★ By Tom & Julie - Feb 21, 2010

My family stayed at the hotel for a weekend night. It is very close to the Seattle Aquarium and downtown tourist spots. When we got to our room, there was a tray of old food from room service that had been sitting there for several hours it looked like. It was still there when we left the next day! Parking is expensive, and we ended up using the parking garage next door. The on-site restaurant had poor service and the food was not good. The room rate included a Visa $25 gift card, but what that actually means is that Marriott mails you instructions to go on a website, fill in information, and you get the gift card in 4 to 6 weeks. The swimming pool for the kids is very small compared to most hotel swimming pools, and gets crowded quickly because it seems to be a popular hotel. All in all, I would not stay there again.
